Conference Tracks and Themes at the 32nd Annual Meeting

Our UAA Annual Meeting is once again featuring a series of panels focusing on issues of housing and community development sponsored by the Fannie Mae Foundation. In honor of their continuing support, we have called this series of panels the “Fannie Mae Foundation Track in Housing and Community Development.” Panels in this track do not compete with each other; that is, if all you want to experience at our 32nd Annual Meeting are papers focused on issues of housing and community development, your conference schedule is laid out for you below!

As in the past, we have also identified broad themes around which a number of panels, colloquies, and breakfast roundtables seemed to coalesce. This is our attempt to help you identify some of the major themes people are thinking about and to make your task of picking and choosing how to spend your time at the Annual Meeting a little bit easier. Unlike the Fannie Mae Foundation Track however, and due to scheduling demands, sessions grouped together in a theme may be competing with each other. We must also note that we may have overlooked including a session under a theme; this speaks not to our intent to slight any presenters, but rather to your creative ability to see connections we missed.

The Exhibit Hall (Stanbro)

This year we are proud to offer an expanded Exhibit Hall. Individual publishers as well as Association Book Exchange will be displaying their products. We encourage you to peruse the latest offerings from the publishers who help promote our work on urban issues.

Also new this year, several institutional UAA members will host tables displaying their programs. Please be sure to stop by and learn more about our member's programs.

As always, the Exhibit Hall will feature the paper exchange. Presenters should give extra copies of their papers to the conference staff when they register. Papers are on sale for $1 each.

Lastly, this year we are introducing the Syllabi Exchange. Syllabi are available for a variety of academic disciplines as well as for undergraduate and graduate courses. We encourage you to stop by and check out this new exhibit. Syllabi are free to conference attendees.

Guidelines for Panel and Colloquy Moderators and Presenters

- Start promptly!
- Reserve at least 30 minutes for discussion open to the audience.
- Panelist have only 12 minutes if there are four papers (15 minutes if there are three) to present their research question, methodology, major findings, and any conclusions they have drawn – and reading papers is absolutely not acceptable.
- Moderators should warn presenters when they have 5 minutes left of their time and again when there is only 1 minute left of their time.
- Remarks by panel moderators – to introduce the topics or the panelists or to summarize what was discussed – may not exceed 12 minutes if there are four papers (15 minutes if there are three papers).
- If a moderator is not listed on the program or does not arrive, we ask that the first presenter assume this role. We appreciate your flexibility.

Some Definitions

A panel is formal consideration of an issue through the presentation of several papers followed by relatively structured discussion among paper presenters and the audience.

A colloquy is formal discussion of an issue.

A roundtable is informal discussion of an issue over breakfast that is open to anyone who wishes to join in (and a good way to meet people who share your interests).

& Some Odds and Ends...

All people who pre-registered for the conference should have had a receipt placed behind the name tag they received when they received their registration material. If you did not get one -- or if you have lost it and need another -- go to the registration table and ask for one.

You can buy guest ticket(s) at the conference headquarters desk if you would like to bring a guest (or guests) to one of the receptions or other special conference events.

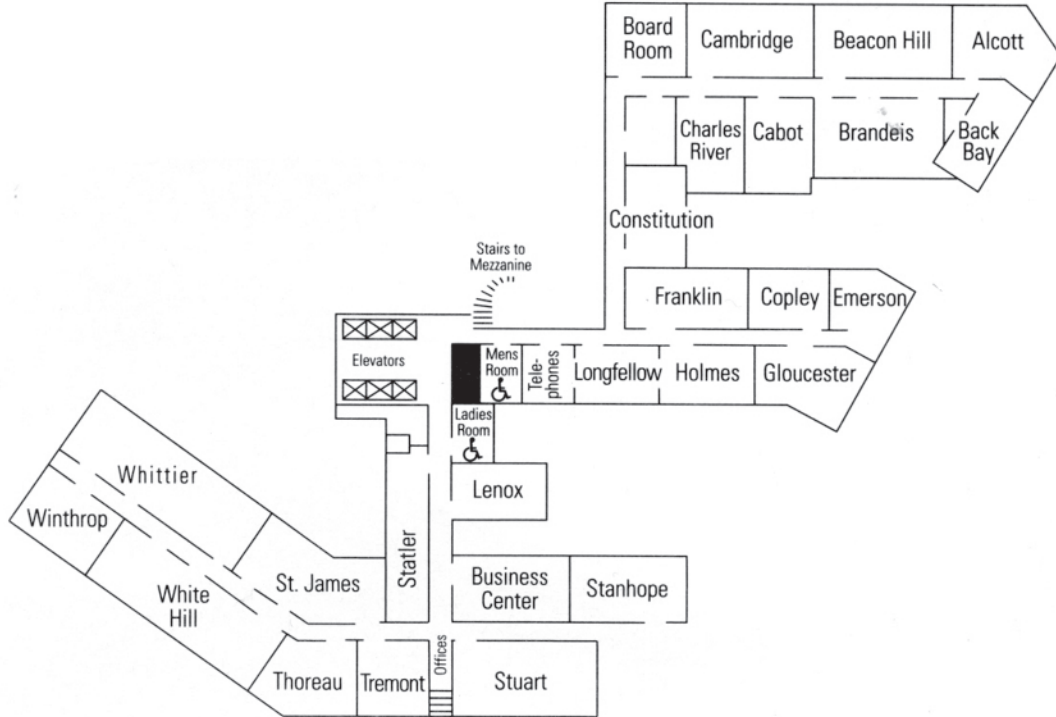

Finally, your candid responses to the conference evaluation forms are of great importance to us -- please complete your form and leave it at the conference headquarters desk before you leave the 32nd Annual Meeting.
